To Whom It May Concern:

Four Seasons Environmental, Inc. recently provided commissioning services for a large commercial project for our firm. Specifically, Chris Rice and his team were responsive and comprehensive in their role as an Owner's Representative during the commissioning efforts. Their focused approach and detailed documentation integrated with other team members to ensure that the Owner was receiving the systems and operational capabilities that were prescribed in the design documents.

This particular project encountered delays and other conditions over the completion of the project. Chris and his team were flexible in their approach to working with the design and construction teams to address these issues and, where necessary, took an active role in helping develop a successful outcome for the Owner.

I will gladly reach out to FSE on future projects for their Commissioning services.

Respectfully,
